Letter From the Dean

Thank you for your interest in learning more about Purdue Global Law School. As you consider us, let me take a moment to share my own considerations in coming here.

After a dozen years at an American Bar Association (ABA)-approved law school, I was in line to become their next dean. Instead, I chose to become the dean here. My reasons were simple. The future of legal education is online. And the future of online legal education is at Purdue Global Law School.

Traditional law schools have been criticized for focusing more on theoretical scholarship than practical skills. At the same time, the cost of law school has skyrocketed, with many graduates shouldering six-figure debt — a particularly heavy burden in today's challenging economic climate, and one that impacts both the graduates themselves and the public at large. The high cost of legal education translates to legal services that can be prohibitively expensive for all but large corporations and wealthier individuals.

Traditional law schools have, by and large, been slow to respond. Many have made only incremental moves toward making their curriculum more relevant to the modern job market. They have limited options for those who want advanced legal training but don't necessarily want to practice law. They rarely can accommodate the schedules of students with jobs, families, or geographic limitations. And yet the tuition at most law schools only continues to increase, adding to the mounds of student debt.

Enter Purdue Global Law School, with its mission of making high-quality legal education affordable and accessible. By leveraging technology, Purdue Global Law School offers tuition that is a fraction of the cost of many traditional law schools, without compromising on educational rigor. Lower debt means more options at graduation. And due to the flexible online format, students do not need to quit their jobs or move near a brick-and-mortar campus, meaning fewer opportunity costs as well.

As online legal education becomes more familiar to the public, I believe all but the most elite traditional law schools will have a harder time demonstrating their value proposition and justifying the tuition they charge. I expect some will fade away altogether. I also believe that Purdue Global Law School is in the best position to take their place.

Purdue Global Law School was the first online law school in the nation, and continues to be an innovator, offering the Juris Doctor (JD) degree in part- and full-time options, as well as the Executive Juris Doctor (EJD) degree with four specialty tracks. We have the benefit of being part of Purdue Global, an accredited institution, with teams of specialists who can help us integrate cutting-edge distance and adult learning research into our comprehensive curriculum. Our faculty are top notch and dedicated to student success. And our students enjoy a vibrant community. They come from diverse backgrounds and a range of professions and industries. Some choose to earn a law degree to enhance their current work, while others seek to embark on new careers or change career fields. Many report that their experience at Purdue Global Law School was far more engaging than they thought possible.

Purdue Global Law School is accredited by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California, making it one of the first fully online law schools to achieve this accreditation. And since location is not a barrier for us, many Purdue Global Law School graduates use their degree to leverage opportunities across the country. Purdue Global Law School has alumni in all 50 states, as well as dozens of foreign countries.

We welcome your interest and look forward to learning more about your individual ambitions. I am very pleased that I chose Purdue Global Law School. I hope you'll find it's the right fit for you, too.

Mission Statement

Purdue Global Law School delivers an unrivaled legal education. Our intellectually rigorous programs prepare students to effectively advocate, making a positive impact.

Our online curriculum allows students the opportunity to attend law school while staying in their communities and balancing work and family schedules.

Why Choose Purdue Global Law School?

CHOOSE THE SCHOOL THAT PIONEERED THE DELIVERY OF ONLINE LEGAL EDUCATION

Purdue Global Law School was the first law school in the United States to make it possible for busy working professionals to earn a traditional legal education online. Since 1998, we've educated thousands of practicing attorneys and career professionals with effective, engaging, and innovative learning.

This is your moment. You've worked long and hard. Now it's time to earn the law degree your career deserves from the original innovator of online legal education. As the nation's first fully online law school, Purdue Global Law School is where the freedom of online learning meets a rigorous curriculum that reflects the needs of today's employers — and where working adults become tomorrow's leaders. Our affordable, high-quality law degree programs are designed to fit seamlessly into your life so you can come back and move your career forward.¹

Accredited

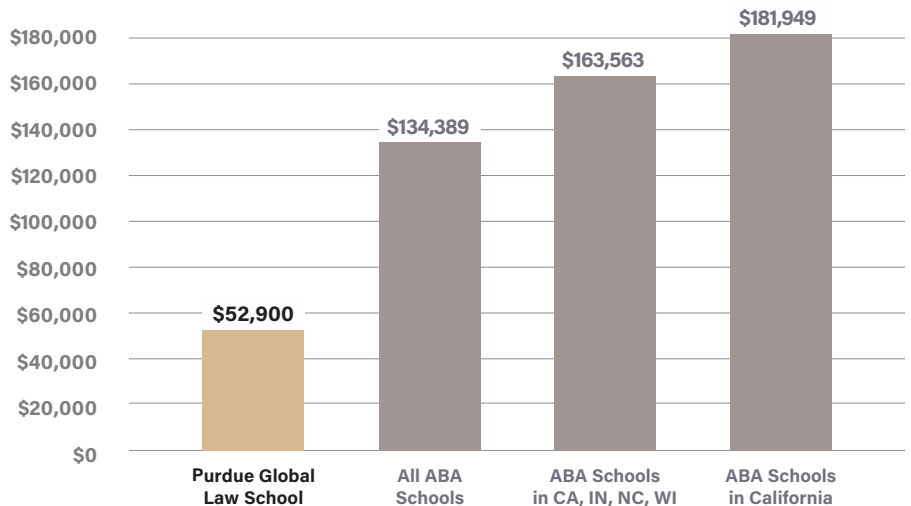

Purdue Global is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission (HLCommission.org), an institutional accreditation agency recognized by the U.S. Department of Education.

Purdue Global Law School is accredited by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California. With this accreditation, Purdue Global Law School has the authority to offer a Juris Doctor degree that academically qualifies our graduates to sit for the bar exam in California, Connecticut, or — with approved petition — Indiana. Upon receipt of a California, Connecticut, or Indiana law license, graduates may also apply to sit for the state bar exam in North Carolina and Wisconsin.

Affordable

Invest in your future with a results-driven legal education that costs 65% less than traditional law schools.² Our Juris Doctor (JD) degree program offers a path to California, Connecticut, or — with approved petition — Indiana bar licensure.

Our Executive Juris Doctor (EJD) program provides advanced legal knowledge for those who do not intend to practice law, and can be completed in just 3 years of part-time study — that's 25% less time and tuition spent, compared to our 4-year part-time law degree. Both programs offer scholarship opportunities for qualified applicants. Your Purdue Global Law School Admissions Advisor will be glad to share all the details with you when you call.

Student Experience

We strive to deliver a positive educational experience for our students. We measure the success of our efforts through feedback provided by students and alumni.

We regularly participate in the national Law School Survey of Student Engagement (LSSSE).³ We have found that our students are satisfied with Purdue Global Law School and rate their experiences with us higher than the average of students at traditional law schools.

Satisfaction

Purdue Global Law School students rated their satisfaction with their educational experience as good (3.40 vs. 3.02, on a 4-point scale). When compared to responses from students at other law schools, Purdue Global Law School's ratings were higher than average for overall satisfaction with academic advising and planning (3.19 vs. 2.58, on a 4-point scale).

Students noted that our law school provided the support they needed to succeed academically (3.17 vs. 2.75 on a 4-point scale).

Faculty Connection

Our students rated their experience more favorably in:

- Receiving prompt feedback from faculty on their academic performance (3.05 vs. 2.48, on a 4-point scale)
- The quality of relationships with faculty members (5.51 vs. 5.26, on a 7-point scale)

Legal Skill Development

Our students rated key components of legal skills development more favorably than the average of students from other law schools:

- Contributed to developing legal research skills (3.57 vs. 3.17, on a 4-point scale)
- Contributed to writing clearly and effectively (3.45 vs. 3.17, on a 4-point scale)
- Contributed to thinking critically and analytically (3.57 vs. 3.34, on a 4-point scale)
- Contributed to speaking clearly and effectively (3.11 vs. 2.85, on a 4-point scale)

Personalized Support

We offer personalized, one-on-one academic support if you have any questions or need help. We also offer support services to help students pass the bar and reach their career goals, including a capstone course in the final year of the JD program designed to reinforce the knowledge and skills needed to pass the bar exam.

Valuable Work Experience

Through our Legal Education Experience Program (LEEP), you can earn course credit for externship programs by working in the profession, providing invaluable real-world experience. You can also participate in a legal incubator program to help you launch your own practice after graduation.

Rewarding Relationships

Although our “campus” is online, our students are active and engaged both in and out of the classroom. There are many opportunities to connect with and get support from other students, including the Student Bar Association, forming study groups, and participating in our award-winning moot court team.

Many lifelong friendships are created at Purdue Global Law School. Some students even form professional partnerships after graduation.

As a Purdue Global Law student, you’ll have the opportunity to join the Judge Elbert P. Tuttle Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, an international law fraternity offering a vast professional network, supplemental education, leadership development, grants and scholarships, discounts and membership benefits, internship and job opportunities, fraternalism, and more.

Stay Local

Purdue Global Law School offers you greater accessibility and flexibility with the freedom to study anytime, anywhere — all you need is an internet connection. As the first online law school, Purdue Global Law School utilizes a highly interactive learning management system (LMS) that delivers a superior legal education online. Using the LMS, you’ll attend live seminars, interact with professors and fellow students, access our extensive law library, watch video lectures, practice with online learning activities, and take exams.

Strive to Excel

Students who achieve high grade point averages (GPAs) are honored as distinguished scholars or named to the Dean’s List. Our top students in written and oral advocacy will be able to pursue a place on our moot court team, which competes in regional and national tournaments.

New Career Paths

Among our alumni are successful professionals hailing from all 50 states and over 30 countries, and working across many industries. Alumni are prepared to leverage their legal expertise to make a bigger impact as executives or advocates within health care, insurance, cybersecurity, education, finance, and many other professions.

Supportive Professors

Study with law professors who are experts in their fields, with outstanding educational credentials and years of experience. Quite a few are published authors and many maintain active roles in successful outside practices, businesses, and public service endeavors, sharing that invaluable real-world perspective with students. Most importantly, they are focused on your success, actively supporting you at every step.

Which Program Is Right for You?

Students are often surprised to discover how many new career avenues they can pursue with advanced legal education.

Most know the traditional path: earning a JD degree, passing the bar exam, and becoming a licensed attorney. But that's hardly the only choice.

As our world grows more complex, legal expertise paves the way for executives and professionals across medicine, technology, business, criminal justice, and other professions to make a much bigger impact. The following pages introduce our Juris Doctor (JD) and Executive Juris Doctor (EJD) degree programs, along with inspiring examples of how alumni are leveraging their Purdue Global Law School legal education to shape exciting new career paths.

As you evaluate your options, please consider reaching out to our supportive Admissions Advisors for help. They have in-depth knowledge about both programs and can guide you on which may be the best fit, as well as answer all your questions.

Juris Doctor (JD) Degree

Your goal is to become a licensed attorney. You want to represent clients in court, provide legal counsel, prepare and deliver impactful trial presentations, lead depositions, negotiate settlements, and negotiate settlements — or perform other attorney functions.

A JD Degree and the Practice of Law Could Be Your Perfect Career Fit

Purdue Global Law School's JD degree program focuses on the knowledge and skills necessary to be an effective member of the legal profession.¹ The JD curriculum, available as a part-time or full-time program, is designed to cover all the subjects tested on the California Bar Exam, as well as foundational courses in legal research and writing and professional responsibility.

Purdue Global Law School is accredited by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California. Our JD graduates are academically eligible to sit for the California, Connecticut, or - with an approved petition - Indiana bar exams. Upon receipt of a California, Connecticut, or Indiana law license, graduates may also apply to sit for the state bar exam in North Carolina and Wisconsin.

Study at, or graduation from, this law school does not qualify you to take the bar examination or to satisfy the requirements for admission to practice in jurisdictions other than California, Connecticut, or — with an approved petition — in Indiana. Purdue Global Law School cannot guarantee that any individual's waiver petition will be granted. Graduates who earned their JD degree in 2024 or later are eligible upon graduation to sit for the Connecticut's Bar Exam through 2027, at which time Purdue Global Law School will seek renewal. After receiving a law license in California, Connecticut, or Indiana graduates may also apply to sit for the bar exam in North Carolina and Wisconsin. There may be additional eligibility requirements to be admitted in California or any other state. Refer to Purdue Global's State Licensure and Certifications page for state-specific requirements.

Purdue Global Law School was named to The Princeton Review's list of Best Online JD Programs for the past four years (2021-2024).

I compared the coursework of the brick and mortars (to Purdue Global Law School) and all of the basic coursework was the same. Then I looked at the faculty and compared that. I kept coming back to Purdue Global Law School. From the online presence to the people I spoke with to the curriculum offered to the faculty, it was kind of a no brainer for me.”

Michelle Becker, JD
Special Education Attorney⁵

Executive Juris Doctor (EJD) Degree

Your goal is adding legal expertise to further your career opportunities in your present job or in a new field, but you have no intention of practicing law.¹ You want the knowledge and skills of a lawyer, but your interests are focused on areas outside traditional law practice. Perhaps you envision yourself helping people resolve disputes, becoming an advocate for patients or families who need help, or reviewing contracts or shaping policy in the corporate world. Perhaps you hope to build your knowledge so you can communicate more effectively with attorneys in your company or organization.

An EJD Degree May Be Your Best Choice

This unique non-bar-track program provides in-depth legal expertise to further your career goals and achieve bigger impact, without the hurdles necessary to become a licensed attorney. You won't need to take the bar exam or complete continuing legal education credits.

In the first year, you'll take foundational legal courses that are also included in the JD program. While JD students focus on bar exam subject matter in subsequent years, you'll gain much more flexibility to structure your legal education to your specific career needs. Choose one of four specialty tracks or select electives applicable to your area of interest.

EJD Specialty Tracks:

- Business Law
- Health Law
- Education Law
- Law and Technology

Except as provided in rule 4.30 of the Admissions Rules (legal education in a foreign state or country), completion of a professional law degree program at this law school other than for the Juris Doctor degree does not qualify a student to take the California Bar Examination or satisfy the requirements for admission to practice law in California. It may not qualify a student to take the bar examination or to satisfy requirements for admission to the practice of law in any other jurisdiction. A student intending to seek admission to practice law should contact the admitting authority in the jurisdictions where the student intends to qualify to sit for the bar examination or to be admitted to practice for information regarding their legal education requirements.

Total Program Tuition	$39,240

Each term is 16 weeks (3 terms per year).

I chose Purdue Global Law School for a couple of reasons...they had an Executive Juris Doctor program...it was like that program was designed for me. I didn't want to become a lawyer. I wanted to learn the law."

Althea Halchuck, EJD Medical Mediator⁵

Discover the Possibilities

Purdue Global Law School graduates are leveraging their degrees in both traditional practice and in nontraditional, high-growth fields like medicine, law, technology, and much more. We have thousands of graduates, over 700 of whom are licensed attorneys. What follows is just a sampling of professional paths law school graduates have taken.¹ Note: not all careers listed require a JD or EJD.

Alternative Dispute Resolution/Mediation

- Starting companies that focus on divorce mediation
- Founding new firms providing a wide range of mediation and training services
- Specializing in medical dispute resolution involving hospice, medical malpractice, clinical bioethics, and elder care

Business

- Working in or leading companies' in-house counsel departments
- Specializing in international business law and global trade compliance management for multinational firms
- Practicing in franchisor/franchisee law, business law, and estate planning
- Working in corporate procurement as a contract negotiator
- Managing contracts in the oil and gas industry

Criminal Justice

- Working as a city police department sergeant, leading Traffic Enforcement and Major Accident Investigation Teams
- Serving as a deputy district attorney or public defender
- Coordinating drug court efforts for a state or county agency
- Establishing a non-profit focusing on prison reform

Cybersecurity/IT

- Helping health care organizations protect patient's private information

- Operating a private practice that specializes in cybersecurity and data protection
- Working with tech startups as a consultant on contracts, service terms, and other legal issues

Education/Family Law

- Shaping higher education policy as college board of trustee members, deans, and administrators
- Helping special-needs children, their families, and local communities through private practice or nonprofit organizations
- Acting as court-appointed special advocates

Financial Services

- Specializing in insurance law and authoring books now used in continuing education credit for the industry
- Supporting large banking, mortgage lending, and mortgage compliance institutions as senior counsel
- Serving as a business consultant, CPA, litigation support, and tax service provider
- Launching firms that specialize in trust and estate administration, forensic accounting, and tax planning/preparation
- Founding businesses that provide consulting for broker-dealers and investment advisers in regulatory matters involving FINRA, SEC, and state regulatory authorities
- Serving as leaders in large financial institutions specializing in retirement services

Government: Federal, State, Local

- Serving as Chief Diversity Officer of a federal executive branch agency
- Serving as a liaison between government agencies
- Representing state and local agencies as their counsel
- Presiding as a magisterial district judge

Not all professions mentioned above are possible with an EJD degree. "Private practice" implies a law practice. This requires earning a JD degree, passing a state bar exam, and complying with all other testing, continuing education, and other licensing requirements as set by the specific state where an individual wishes to practice law.

Health

- Working in product liability
- Founding medical device companies
- Leading statewide health exchange companies
- Serving on the board of pharmaceutical companies
- Serving as expert witnesses in medical malpractice cases and consulting on health care agency contracts
- Leading risk, corporate responsibility, and HIPAA policy/execution at hospitals/medical facilities
- Verifying and resolving medical liens and providing future medical allocation services at health care compliance firms
- Directing compliance for clinical lab and research divisions

Insurance and Risk Management

- Directing flood insurance operations for a national insurance firm
- Leading a statewide insurance exchange for political subdivisions

Intellectual Property/Patents/ Technology Commercialization

- Practicing as a registered patent agent or attorney in private practice
- Serving as intellectual property counsel for medical device firms
- Operating as an attorney and technology consultant to multiple firms

Professional Faculty: Superior Support

Purdue Global Law School's professors are experienced online instructors — legal subject-matter experts with real-world knowledge. Many have taught at other law schools and draw upon their experiences from the courtroom, corporate world, and public sector. The school also has a Professor of Academic Support and a Director of Bar Support to provide relevant support to students.

Featured Professors

Kelley Mauerman, Associate Dean of Experiential Learning and Professor of Law

BA, Northwestern University

JD cum laude, University of San Diego School of Law

With her expertise in curriculum and course development, Dean Mauerman created Purdue Global Law School's Professional Responsibility and Cross Professional Ethics courses. She also serves as the director of the externship program, as the head coach for Purdue Global Law School's moot court team, and as liaison for the school's postgraduate incubator program. She was previously a full-time professor of lawyering skills at Whittier Law School, where she developed and taught courses in lawyering skills, professional responsibility, electronic discovery, and pretrial litigation. After graduation from law school, Dean Mauerman clerked for Magistrate Judge Cynthia G. Aaron in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California. She has practiced law in the area of wills, trusts, and estate planning and has presented at numerous regional and national conferences.

Scott Johnson, Professor of Law

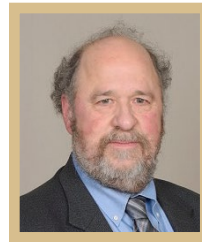

BA, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

JD, Franklin Pierce Law Center

Professor Johnson is a Hearings Officer with the New Hampshire Department of Education. He was previously in private practice with a focus in administrative law, constitutional law, education law, and health law. He was involved in a number of precedent setting cases including Claremont v. Governor, the case establishing that all New Hampshire students have a constitutional right to an adequate education. He is a member of the United States Supreme Court Bar. Professor Johnson is the author of a number of articles and books in various areas of law, including casebooks on education law and special education law.

Steve Bracci, Associate Dean of First Year Programs and Bar Support and Professor of Law

BA, University of California at Los Angeles

JD, Whittier College of Law

Dean Bracci is a well-known lecturer and has been teaching law since 1979. He has served as the academic director for law school divisions of a number of legal publishers. Dean Bracci has extensive expertise in examination techniques and has conducted writing and test-taking seminars nationwide. Dean Bracci teaches first-year subjects, including torts, criminal law, contracts, and legal writing at Purdue Global Law School, as well as remedies. He has been preparing Purdue Global Law School students for the bar exam since the school's inception. He also helped design Capstone, our review course for the bar exam.

James Dodge, Professor of Law

BS, University of Illinois

JD, Southern Illinois University School of Law

Professor Dodge began teaching at Purdue Global Law School in 2000. He has previously served as the Executive Director of the Illinois Legislative Reference Bureau, and is a Commissioner of the Uniform Laws Commission. A former prosecutor and a former assistant attorney general (Illinois), Professor Dodge previously served in the Illinois Senate President's Office as Parliamentarian and Deputy Chief Counsel to the Senate President, where he helped write the rules for the impeachment trial of former Illinois Governor Rod Blagojevich and was part of a multiyear project to rewrite and modernize the Illinois Criminal Code and Code of Corrections.

Meet Our Purdue Global Law School Graduates

June Monroe, JD
Partner, Fennemore⁵

June Monroe grew up in Downey, California. She worked her way through college, graduating from Cal State Fullerton. Shortly thereafter, June took a job in 1997 as a receptionist at a small law firm. She married and had two children.

It was a nice start to her career. The law firm trained her as a legal secretary and then as a paralegal. "I was doing the work of an attorney — legal research and drafting pleadings. The only thing I couldn't do was represent the clients and argue on their behalf," says June.

After nine years of administrative legal support, June decided that she wanted more for herself and, importantly, her young children. "I am a mom who drives a minivan and my goal was to provide a better life for my children."

“Purdue Global Law School by far had the convenience, technology, and affordability that would make it feasible for me to get a law degree. Law school is extremely challenging. It is not for everybody. But Purdue Global Law School gives you the opportunity to achieve your potential.”

She chose Purdue Global Law School. "Purdue Global Law School by far had the convenience, technology, and affordability that would make it feasible for me to get a law degree. Law school is extremely challenging. It is not for everybody. But Purdue Global Law School gives you the opportunity to achieve your potential."

According to June, she relied most on her mother, father, and sisters to help with her young boys, who were 7 and 2 when she started at Purdue Global Law School. Her employer was very supportive as well. "Going to law school is not a one-person journey. You take your whole family and friends with you."

She graduated from Purdue Global Law School with a Juris Doctor degree in 2012 and went on to pass the California Bar Exam.

June became a practicing attorney and partner in the same firm where she started as a receptionist. The firm merged into Fennemore, an AM Law 200 firm where she is a director and practices agribusiness, labor & employment, and business litigation.

Dennis Shogren, EJD

President, Shogren & Associates⁵

Dennis Shogren grew up in and around Eugene, Oregon. He earned his bachelor's degree in accounting and an MBA in finance and became a Certified Public Accountant. He moved around the United States in various senior corporate finance roles before settling down in California in 1997. He then became CEO of a modular building manufacturer in 2006.

The recession soon hit and Dennis decided to make a career change, opening up his own accountancy practice focusing on trust and probate work. An attorney friend called on Dennis to serve as an expert witness.

"I got a taste of the courtroom environment and going to law school would be a really good way to get a practical education to go with my accounting skills," says Dennis.

“The faculty and staff at Purdue Global Law School are top of the line. There is no question when you get done with a Purdue Global Law School law degree you’ve got a great education.”

He decided to enroll in Purdue Global Law School's EJD program because it worked with his hectic schedule. "When you work for yourself, you work all the time," he explains.

Dennis has some advice for others considering going to an online law school like Purdue Global Law School.

"It is like any big decision, so think before you enroll. Don't underestimate how much work it is. It is not easy because it is online. It is doable. It works. The flexibility is amazing. I had a blast."

He graduated with his EJD in 2014. "My legal education comes in very handy. It's been really good for me to have when I do work for attorneys. They actually like the idea that I can understand their language. I know about procedure and I am comfortable in their world."

How the Program Works

Going to law school online is very much like attending law school on a physical campus. Our learning management system (LMS) provides what students expect to find in the halls of a brick-and-mortar law school: classrooms, professors' offices, and a law library.

- You'll read and analyze the same cases and use the same textbooks as students in traditional law schools.
- You'll get your own personalized, interactive home page where you can track your progress, upload assignments, and access course materials.
- Your courses include streaming video and live interactive classes.
- You'll take multiple-choice quizzes and practice essays that help prepare you for exams.
- You'll engage with professors and classmates via live, synchronous online classes, email, discussion boards, and other interactive online technologies.

Tuition

Purdue Global Law School provides an affordable option for legal education. The current average annual tuition for our part-time JD program is $13,225. The current annual tuition for the Executive Juris Doctor is $13,080. A scholarship is also available to eligible students.⁶ Active-duty servicemembers, veterans, military spouses, and Indiana residents are eligible for a 10% tuition reduction.

How to Apply

Those who succeed at Purdue Global Law School are ambitious, highly motivated, and self-disciplined. With the goal of enrolling only those up to the challenge, the Purdue Global Law School admissions process is selective.

Your Purdue Global Law School Admissions Advisor will personally guide you through the application process and answer all your questions. Here are the three key steps:

1. Apply online at www.PurdueGlobalLawSchool.edu/Enrollment-Application.
2. Complete the Purdue Global Law School online admissions exam, a multiple-choice exam and essay that tests reading comprehension and logical analysis, not legal knowledge.
3. Submit all required documents, including official transcripts from accredited colleges and universities.

You can take your online admissions exam at no charge from the convenience of your home or office. There's no expensive or inconvenient outside testing like the LSAT required.⁷ Although not mandatory, if you have LSAT scores, we encourage you to include them, as your score may make you eligible for a partial scholarship.

Purdue Global Law School is part of Purdue Global, which is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission (HLCommission.org), an institutional accreditation agency recognized by the U.S. Department of Education. The law school is accredited by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California. Due to its accreditation by the Committee of Bar Examiners, Purdue Global Law School has the authority to offer a Juris Doctor degree that qualifies recipients to take the California Bar Examination and obtain admission to the practice of law in California.

Study at, or graduation from, this law school does not qualify you to take the bar examination or to satisfy the requirements for admission to practice in jurisdictions other than California and Connecticut or — with an approved petition — in Indiana. Since 2005, Purdue Global Law School has participated in the LSSSE every other year. In the 2023-2024 survey, responses were recorded from more than 13,000 law students from 71 law schools in the U.S. In the data from 2023-2024, Purdue Global Law School students responded more favorably than the average rating from LSSSE respondents as a whole on a variety of metrics, including some for which one might expect traditional schools to outperform an online school. Responses averaged on a 4-point scale unless otherwise indicated. The figures are the averages reported across 1L, 2L, 3L, and, if applicable, 4L students.
